Looking for IOS, Android, and pc developers interested in joining together in the starting of a new company in the field of software designing for interfaces to help both businesses and residential clients estimate and shop for solar panels. I am looking for a very small team of devs, investors and business growers to join me in breaking into this very fast pasted billion dollar business for an app and website that will give clients and solar companies to be able to give their clients the abilities to estimate, compare shop and order solar panels from the ease and comfort of their own homes, airports, and waiting rooms across the country. I am only looking someone in the tech field already and ready to work towards bringing a start up from the ground up to a multi-million dollar business by putting in a lot of work so if you aren't able to work on this full time then pass by.

Call me or email me and I will explain the idea and we can meet to talk sooner the better.

Thank
