Home values have been steadily rising over the last several years in the Greater New Orleans area. In fact, home values have increased 58 percent over inflation since 2000 in the New Orleans area.

If you are considering selling to capitalize on this increase in values NOW is the time! This is great time to sell if you are looking to trade up by using the extra equity you've built up towards purchasing a new home, or if you need to downsize you'll have plenty of money to do so.
