For every publishable piece there is a copy editor who provides a solid final draft. I have over eight years of combined academic and professional editorial experience.

If you have a manuscript that needs copyediting, I can help. Depending on the amount of editing needed, I provide reasonable rates. Rates vary on whether the work needs basic copyediting (depending on how comfortable you are with your writing skills) or line editing (which entails heavy-handed editing). If line editing is needed, I will sustain voice and style throughout the work while ensuring its clarity and readability. Please contact me at your earliest convenience to discuss your project.
