Is your old credit holding back? Do you keep getting turned down? Have you ever heard of a cpn number? It works like a ssn number when applying for credit. It is legal. It is a fresh start. You can google it for tons of information or you can go to our website for info. Basically the way it works for apartments is this. Rental properties run your credit to check for negative credit on your record like evictions, judgments, deliquent payments. Since this is new credit there won't be anything negative on there. Even if you had positive rental history it wouldn't show on your credit report. So, the lack of negative history insuates positive history. If you can provide proof of income you can rent where you chose. Fresh credit will also qualify you for a car, credit cards, store credit, furniture, cable/internet/phones, utilities and anything else starter credit can get.
