I'm trying to develop a solid writing habit, and I think it would help to meet with another writer or two for a regular, weekly meetup. We can discuss our work, read a bit, give feedback or just encouragement. Hopefully this can help us keep plugging away at our projects on a regular basis. Maybe an hour commitment would be ideal.

About me: I'm a 31yo second shifter, so I work most weekdays from 4 until late. My days off are irregular, they change from week to week, but I could possible ask for a particular weekday if you can only meet on weekday afternoons, post a 9-5. I used to work in Taiwan as an editor for a newspaper, I have two master's degrees (education and social science research focusing on Asia-Pacific region) and I can't remember not wanting to be a writer. I spread myself too thin, however, and it's been hard to fit in a writing habit with my fitness goals and cooking, music, language learning and homesteading skills (those are my main areas of interest).

Looking forward to meeting you and achieving our writing goals!
