The Sulphur Crested Cockatoo is a highly active and lively bird that requires plenty of exercise to maintain proper health. Owners of Sulphur Crested Cockatoos should allow their pets a minimum of 3 to 4 hours of outside-the-cage playtime every day. It is also important for owners to provide plenty of space for the bird to climb, stretch and flap its wings. Most Cockatoo owners provide their birds with play stands or special perches for their exercise needs and thats why we cant keep her Our grandchild who 2 does not leave her alone. So shes locked up almost all the time and depressed now losing head feathers need to find a good home for her shes 8 years old talks alot and will walk all around the house and will sit on your lap call also comes with a big and beautiful bird cage 400
