QR Code Link to This Post I'm a graduate student with a BSc in Criminal Justice and Political Science, and I'm working on my Master's right now. Like a lot of other graduate students, I teach to fund my degree, and I also tutor on the side. Because of my degree (and degree in progress!) and my experience as a teaching assistant and tutor, I can offer help that others may not be able to!

===Essays, Lab Reports, Projects, and Presentations===

Not every university or high school has the greatest writing center. I get that. Maybe you just don't have time to stop by, or you've had a bad experience with them in the past. Since the end of term is coming up, and the centers might be busy, let's work together to make sure your paper gets a good grade. :) Having a person who grades papers for a living review your work can be extremely beneficial, and I can actually tell you what a great paper looks like, and what I'd take marks off for. Personally, I have never scored poorly on an essay, and all the students I work with hand in excellent work! I offer help with:

Proofreading

Creating essay outlines

Research (I have access to two universities' library systems and article databases!)

Literature and poetry analyses

Developing strong arguments and ideas

Writing a script for a presentation

Putting together a presentation

Writing an essay or paper from scratch

I am comfortable with most subjects (see the subjects I teach under Tutoring), and so I can critique your arguments regardless of the topic you're writing about. My rates are extremely affordable! I've never had a disappointed customer, and I have dozens of repeat customers every semester!

===Tutoring===

I teach English, Philosophy, Criminal Justice, Political Science, History, and Social Studies. If you are struggling with understanding a concept and have, please feel free to reach out to me. I love teaching, and if I can help you I will. The amount I charge for tutoring depends on the subject material, and how much time a lesson would take.

===Thank You!===

Anyway, I hope you consider working with me if you need the sort of help that I can provide, and I'm sure you won't be disappointed:)

I accept Google Wallet and PayPal, but other forms of payment can be discussed!
