Just moved back to the New England area after a long time in Southern FL. I am a pro Vocalist/Frontman that is seeking a new gig. Mostly Classic and Southern rock, Texas style Blues. Would like to stay to the same styles and genre but am not afraid to mix it up or learn new material. As I said I am a pro I have worked with national acts and know how to practice my craft. Have my own equipment and will soon have rehearsal space available. I do my home work and am easy to get along with. I do this because I love the music not because I need the money (have a day job for that) It's in my soul. Looking for an established band or start up, Like I said I'm easy to get along with. I have a 2 and a half octave range (used to be 3) and have no issues with stage presence. I also play some guitar and have a complete guitar rig as well as a PA and complete monitor system. Hit me up and lets do....
