Rosey Bourke and Lineolated Parakeet babies (Aurora)

Location Ohio https://www.genclassifieds.com/x-260815-z

I am a small RESPONSIBLE hobby hand raiser of small bird/parrot species. My babies are pulled from the nest just before their eyes open so they are 'imprinted' to humans, which makes them the most tame of any bird you can get. They are hand fed by me through weaning, not by their parents. I use high quality food and supplements for all of my birds, their health is gauranteed. I care about all of my birds, so a small screening process is required to ensure my babies are going to good homes- I will ask some questions to get to know you. On the other side of this is that I am always here for questions or help regarding your new addition!

I have just one pair of Rosey Bourkes and one pair of Lineolated Parakeets- little known birds that make excellent companions! The parents are who is pictured, babies started hatching on 1/25/15 so I'm not sure how many of the eggs will hatch but I am taking deposits on babies now. Rosey babies will be $90, and the linnies will be anywhere from $150-$250 depending on color. This is the first time this pair is producing for me, so I'm not entirely sure what colors I will see. Green will be $150 and they will go up from there for different.
