Poor Clojo (24840720) is so scared that he hasn't been able to show us his true winning personality, and with the kennels full at ACCT, he's a dog who needs to get out of here more than most! This handsome brindle Cane Corso mix was surrendered along with his pal Roxy when his owner's landlord said no furry friends were allowed. Understandably, this young 8 month old boy who is separated from the only friend he trusts, Roxy, is scared and just not taking this noisy kennel environment well. Health wise, this boy is as strong as can be at 65 pounds with no health issues whatsoever, so it makes it even more of a shame that his fear is holding him back from finding a adopter, let alone a rescue or foster. Even before we opened his cage, Clojo was just staring at us, tense, with those sad eyes, shaking nervously at us, who so desperately want to help save him. You can tell that all this boy needs is the opposite of a kennel environment and poor Clojo will sprout new wings and show his true colors. At only 8 months old, it's terrible this poor pup with so much health and potential has such a burden placed over his head. Be the one who changes that and rescue him from an uncertain fate! Clojo needs your help!

This is just one of the many wonderful dogs in urgent need of adoption, foster care, or rescue at Philadelphia's animal control shelter, ACCT. You can stop down and meet them, and after filling out an application with shelter staff, interact with them 365 days a year at the shelter- 111 W. Hunting Park Avenue in Philadelphia.
