We are looking for healthy pregnant women for a single blood draw study. The sponsor is trying to determine the range of lab values for thyroid hormones in healthy pregnant women and needs your help. We have already filled the cohort for women with hispanic ethnicity but still need women of other ethnicities. The study should be open for a few more weeks.

You may be eligible to participate in one of our studies if you:

- Are pregnant
- Are 18 years of age or older
- Are presently healthy, taking no prescription medications except prenatal vitamins
- Have no personal or family history of thyroid disease.
- Are willing to participate in a one visit clinical research study
- Are Asian, African-American, Pacific Islander, Native American, Caucasian (non-hispanic)
- Are non-hispanic ethnicity.

Study paid participants must also
Meet all of the eligibility criteria.
Provide accurate information about your medical history and current medical conditions.
