When it comes to selecting a tenant, landlords admit that first impressions matter 3 Poor Conditions

"Nationally, they're at about 96 percent, which is incredibly high This is a deal-breaker for many renters, so make sure to find out a rental's pet policy up front Hopefully, you'll never need renter's insurance, but the protection is well worth the minimal cost Internet and Television Searching for your first rental can be daunting If the building has a main entrance, is it locked after a certain time? Is renter's insurance recommended? Some renters want to have the latest and greatest when it comes to appliances, fixtures and amenities You should also consider renting in a vibrant part of town that will provide you with plenty of opportunities to interact â€" Budget for the extras Another way to save money is transportation

QUESTION: I just moved into my first apartment and my landlord suggested that I buy renter's insurance The rent-to-value ratio is king, in my opinion; the prospect of having nice appreciation in your resale value is strictly secondary You might be able to hire an attorney to coach you through letters and other suggestions before going to court 3 Actual-cash-value will only provide an amount equal to what you originally paid for each item minus depreciation for wear and
