Brick and natural stones some of the greatest materials for chimneys and fireplaces. They provide warmth and structural strength with very low annual maintenance. Although they are more durable than other materials when subject to the natural elements, they will start to fail with time. Proper maintenance, timely repairs, and restoration can prevent them from more severe damage and keep you and your family safe and warm.

Tuck pointing is very important to keep out water, humidity, and moisture thus preventing damage to the structure. Removing old and damaged mortar and replacing it with new mortar forms a protective seal, helping preserve the bricks from further damage and avoiding costly future repairs (like a chimney rebuild).

Brick replacement, repair, or cleaning are all ways to improve the look of your house, as well as offering better protection from the weather elements.

Chimney rebuilds will help prevent the risk of fire, leaks, and improve the appearance of your home. Rebuilding the structure of a chimney can help it last longer and be more comfortable.

Search for Tom Payne on Google, Yelp, and Angie's List. Call or text to find out how to check out the state of your chimney and for advice for the best way to work on it. Working like a pro.
