I am looking to hire a part-time seasonal advocate/ merchandiser to help sell soils in your local home improvement store. I am looking for someone that can work Saturday's and Sunday's from 8am-3pm (or close to these hours). Your job would consists of stacking, cleaning, and helping load bags of soils for customers. You will become very knowledgeable on soils and will talk with customers and help them choose the correct soil for their projects, while they shop in your local home improvement store. I am looking for someone with either sales, customer service, or garden experience, but can definitely train the right person with a winning attitude! This is a great part-time weekend job that is perfect for someone who loves to help others! Pay will start at $12.00 an hour or more depending on experience and qualifications. Please send me a copy of your Resume and the words "I am a weekend warrior" in the subject line of the email so that I know you are real person. Students, retiree's, garden enthusiasts, anyone else who considers themselves a people person please apply!

Also in your email please tell me a little bit about yourself and why you would make a great addition to our team! I will review your resume and get back to you with more information if I think you would be a good!
