Established sculptor, founder of The Crucible, and Stanford Design school Instructor is seeking a studio assistant to help with metalwork and other tasks and manage the well equipped private studio in Alameda.

This person will have the opportunity to learn a wide variety of fabrication skills including welding, metal fabrication, wood working, mechanical repair, construction, and other useful skills.

You will also have access to the studio tools and have space in the studio to make their own work on their own time.

This is the perfect opportunity for someone who wants to improve their fabrication and building skills through hands-on work experience. In addition, the studio assistant will also have access to occasional free classes at The Crucible in Oakland (www.thecrucible.org).

This is primarily a work trade with occasional paid opportunities. This is not a Crucible internship, this is a private sculpture studio assistant position with great studio access and learning opportunities.

Requirements include having your own reliable transportation, a cell phone, and good sense of humor. Previous experience and skills are a plus. Interest and dedication, and reliability are essential.

Work days are typically Tuesdays and Thursdays from 10am to 6pm and occasional weekends. Hours are flexible, but usually between 15-20 hours a week depending on the work load.

Please email your resume and a cover letter to info@thecrucible.org. Please include the words "studio assistant" in the subject line of your email.
