I frequent this section as a frustrated musician trying to find people to connect with and part of my brain always stops me and crap like these posts here are the reason. Seems if you aren't into religion or into being a professional real real soon (which lets face it, ain't gonna happen) the only "I really just want to find some people to hang out and play music with" are 420 freaks or old asshats with moon crater chips on their shoulders. Which is why I give up. .
