I have 5 baby rats ready for adoption, and 2 litters that will be ready in early april. I had my males escape and find their ways into my females cage. I have since then gotten better cages. I had 8 females get pregnant but i have helped raise the babies and some are ready for seperation. They are 5-6 weeks old and super active. They chew a lot so chews will be a must (some chew more than others). I would love to keep them, but i just dont have the time or money to keep up with my little ones. The colors are black and white, brown and white, and blonde and white. The ones ready are fancies, but the litters that will be ready in april will both fancy and dumbo.

Pictures will be sent upon request.

Be warned i love my babies and there will be a small rehoming fee and a contract to ensure that they go to good homes. Please serious inquires only, if you are not interested please let me.
