I have a longhaired female dachshund puppy to rehome she's 5 months old she's up to date on her shots but will need her next set. she comes with all her stuff that includes her (kennel, food, toys, clothes, nail clippers, brushes, and covers). she's been dewormed she's very healthy and playful it breaks my heart to have to get rid of her :( her name is kansas bc we went and got her from kansas. she's good with kids and other pets and very playful loves to play and loves to cuddle she's got her own personality she's got a hearty appetite meaning she's not a picky eater I've been working with her on the kennel potty training thing it's going ok just need more work tho she has a tendency to chew up her potty pad so instead of putting one in there I just clean out her cage when she goes and give her a bath but I do lay out a puppy pad on the floor for her to go on so shes getting that down just gotta keep working on it with her. I've had her since she was 9 weeks old so like I said it's gonna be hard to see her go. I have a 9 month old and kansas just isn't getting the attention she needs I've got too much going on the only thing I ask is that she goes to a good loving family that won't just use her for breeding. (there is a really homing fee) get in touch with me if ur interested in her. (she's not papered or spayed) were located in Lawrence
