Started this band last year. Had some sweet gigs with some rad bands and venues. Did some demos and booked studio time for an EP. Then....everybody quit and the band broke up. Now, I'm gonna record the EP by myself but I need a guitar player(s) and drummer who dig what I'm doing and wanna play live gigs with me to support the EP and keep this train going. I have the songs done already. I need some people to learn the material and put their own twist on it. Once we start playing gigs again, we can write and add new songs later. I need some peeps who can simply follow the plan and not try to change things 6 months later. The train is moving and I need people who want to jump on the train and keep it going in the same direction. If you can follow the script and play your roll, this is the project for you. I'll basically book the shows, write the songs, organize the practices, and set everything up for you. Just learn the songs and show up to practice ready to play...and everything will be good. It's much easier and way more fun when everybody follows the plan.

Gigs are fun and I wanna do them again. I'm very laid back and just wanna have fun.

PLEASE RESPOND WITH AS MUCH INFO AS POSSIBLE.
