Fun project for music engineers in Maine!

We are a professional production company making a documentary about the local music scene in Portland. This film is getting exposure on a local and national level. It also follows the struggle of an artist. We are wrapping up in a month, but we would really love to capture some studio time with the artist, and connect with engineers and hear what they have to say about the scene.

If your an engineer that is interested in volunteering time to record some artists shoot us an email with your number. This could be a great opportunity for exposure for you as an engineer and your company

Thanks!
