I'm looking for other people like me who have skills in crafts, woodworking and such. I want to pull us together in a group effort to start a club/coop to help us to better our products to seek out better prices on tools materials and to pull all our skills to generate more jobs and better service to our customers as well as affordable advertising . all or welcome but I really want those who are fighting to make it in there lives who use there skills to better or service together we can be strong, as in all aspects of life the tribe can hold one up and become stronger doing
