Hello. Grant writing is widely used to secure grant monies from foundations, corporations and government sources. It's really important to have your financial documents, registration as a nonprofit, program plan and your overall readiness to work within a grantor's guidelines. Then, the second most important factor is funding research. Your organization has limited resources-don't waste them developing and sending proposals to sources that won't look at your hard work. I will guide you throughout the grants process from planning to creating your final reports. Please contact me to discuss ways to build a compelling case for your needs and.
