I adopted a tiny 7 week old kitten 12 days ago & recently he's been peeing places. He peed on a pillow that was on my bed while I layed next to it. We bought new ones put that one in the livingroom ontop of some covers he peed on it again. Then peed on the covers later that same morning. Now (Today, just right now) I was laying on the living room floor and when I turned I found what seemed to be poop right next to their eating tray (i have two adopted the same day different kitty families) I'm not sure if it was poop because it was yellow not brown & it was big it did not smell but it was in the shape of poop. Also he gets red crust on the corner of his eyes. Its not gooey & its not clear its red & hard. Is something wrong with my?
