Are you tired of contributing towards making someone else's dream a reality, instead of your own? Do you feel that you are worth more than you are currently being paid? Maybe you have money, but are time broke?

I am looking for people who either desire more time freedom or income. People who want to reach this goal both morally and ethically.

All qualifications considered. I personally train you so what your experience is, doesn't matter. What does matter, is your drive of frustration to want more of your life, your dedication to following tasks you start through and your ability to listen.

This is not about lotion and potions, but creating serious motion.
