Yes, homosexuality is a sin but so is lying, cheating and theft. In God's eyes all sin is the same. I don't understand how any Christian business owner can tell one type of sinner they can't sale to them but it's okay if they sale their product to a liar (which is still a sin by the way). It's like straining out a flee and swallowing a camel! If Christians don't want to deal with sinners how can they ever bear witness to others? Jesus didn't go to the holy rollers to preach he went directly to the sinners...the harlots, tax collectors and adulterers.

Saying you don't want to deal with certain types of sinners is a very selfish way of living. It's like Ted Cruz signing up for Obamacare because it saves him a few dollars but wanting to end the law if he's president because he doesn't want other Americans to have the same opportunity he just received. Very selfish.
