I am subleasing my apartment on June 1st. It will be available until July 15th. This includes one individual room and 1individual bathroom. This is student living so there are also two other rooms in the apartment with individual bathrooms as well. However there will be no one in the apartment at this time. There is a shared living room and kitchen as well. Tanning, gym and pool are included. July is already paid for so it would just be one month of rent. There is an additional room available at this same price during this.
