Well-educated, tall, healthy, good-looking, Caucasian, drug-free, alcohol-free, and disease-free sperm donor available for private consultation. This is a no-sex agreement, and the donor is compliant with the U.S. 2005 STI and communicable disease testing regulations.

Corporate sperm banks can cost up to $30,000, are cold and impersonal, and are sometimes publicly traded companies which cater to investors over hopeful mothers.

Private donor services are offered at significantly lower rates than sperm banks. Due to mutual party presence they are completely confidential. The face-to-face interview makes it a more personable and less pressured experience. And the private agreement doesn't offer any less assurances than those of sperm banks per state and federal regulations.

Probably the best benefit, though, is that because of the personal exchange and interview process, mothers and children will know the background and origin of the father, offering much more "emotional risk support" to the child later on. Additionally, the private donor has full medical history reports, family photos and other information on-hand.

Legal agreement providing mutual lawsuit protection, mutual waiver of parenting and financial obligations as well as a non-disclosure agreement are included for peace of mind.
