Hey! I recently got a degree in computer science, and I'm looking to take my education further. I have trouble sitting down and motivating myself to really go through the exercises sometimes, so I thought it would be cool to get together with someone studying the same thing and compare notes.

Right now, I'm looking at Artificial Intelligence: A Modern Approach and Accelerated C++, but if you're interested in something else, I can be flexible. The Art of Computer Programming, anyone? Or, we could just hang out together and work on your separate projects. Just to take a bit of the isolation out of coding.

Let me!
