I have a 1991 Jayco Eagle travel trailer for sale. I'm selling it for my aunt, she let us use it this past year while we built our home. I lived in it for a solid year, and everything works great. It is very clean, sleeps 5-6, the only thing I haven't used on it recently is the toilet. We bypassed the water to it, because we didn't have a septic tank connected on the property at the time. I currently have power connected to it for viewing. The tires have only 300 miles on them, the roof was sealed every fall, and is in excellent condition. It is clean, but not new. The canister is there for an awning, but the original ripped years ago, we built a porch out on the front. I believe I have priced this affordable to the age and condition. However, I may be a little flexible with an offer. It comes with a good stabilizer kit for pulling and an extra extension power cord that reaches around 75ft if needed. Everything you see in the interior is included. (TV, appliances, and).
