I have a golden retriever puppy for POSSIBLE trade. I DON'T have to get rid of him, but am considering getting a smaller less active dog since I will be moving to a home with a smaller yard soon and won't have the time to run his energy out everyday when we move. This is the ONLY reason I am considering trading him. He is 4-5 months old, very sweet, loves people, kids, other dogs, cats, etc. Very well rounded, completely house trained, knows a few basic commands, loves to sleep in the bed with you. He would be best suited to an older active couple or an active stay at home mom with kids for him to play with. He does NOT like to be crated or left alone since he hasn't lived that life here, but he isn't by any means destructive when left alone just whiny. He is very smart and learns quick so I believe he could easily be taught to self soothe. I'm only considering trades for a purebred puppy and or young dog that is good with kids and other animals and hopefully housebroken. He is UTD on shots and not neutered. He lives a spoiled life where is rarely alone and he eats grain free holistic food, so please only email if you intend on continuing his current lifestyle!
