Women and their infants are needed for a study on infant feeding. Infants must be greater than 1 month old and less than 4 months old to participate. Participants will be asked to come to the feeding lab at the University of Delaware for 2 study visits. Each visit will be approximately 3 hours long. The two study visits will be one week apart. During study visits, we will observe and videotape your infant feeding. You will be compensated for your time and will be reimbursed for parking. If interested, please call
