Looking to find more friends to play music with. Seeking mostly alternative hard rock but also open/freestyle jazz/fusion/rock, experimental jamming, Love: Foo, Weezer, Pumpkins, Live, Tool, Incubus, newer material and much more. I play guitar and vocals primarily but also some drums and atmospheric keyboard stuff, am decently equipped but don't yet have a studio space. Loved my last band because we all switched on and off of different instruments so that would be a BIG plus. For example, a Bass player who also likes to sing, pick up a guitar or keyboard, drums, etc. I'm (young-ish) upper 40's but pretty age agnostic.

Not sure if it will lead to live gigs or just studio jam sessions and "self-interest" recordings, but eager to find out. Bandmates should be open minded, artistic, have a sense of humor, take music seriously but not too much so. Looking to jam 1x per week (+/-) to start up. Need others who are responsive and follow through - helps if you can communicate by email, (sharing files would be ++) and that sort of thing. Let's rock.
