I am looking for someone to watch my 11 month old son approximately 10 hours per week, as well as help out around the house with some light chores. I work from home part-time and I set my own hours, so I am very flexible as to the days and times you can work. Most of the time I will be here working in my home office, but I may occasionally need to step out to run an errand.

For the most part, your job will consist of entertaining one happy and curious baby boy. He doesn't watch TV or play with electronic gadgets, but he's usually very happy just crawling around, having you read books to him, or make funny faces and noises with him.

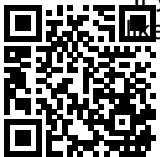

Otherwise, if he is napping, I would appreciate some help around the house. Nothing major, light housekeeping such as vacuuming and dusting.

I think this would be a perfect position for a mature, responsible teen, as you could work for a couple of hours after school a few times a week, but it could also be a great job for a retiree looking for a fun side job, another SAHM (you are welcome to bring your child), or anyone looking to fill some open slots in their schedule. English-speaking is not a necessity, nor is driving a car, and if you've never changed a diaper in your life, I can teach you how:) You just need to like my son and have a positive outlook on life, and you will be perfect.

I am looking for approximately 10 hours total a week, spread out over 2-5 days. Just let me know what hours you had in mind and I can tell you know if that works for me. Pay is $10-$15/hr, depending on experience.

IMPORTANT: Even though I am very flexible with days/times, this is still a "real" job and I need a dependable nanny. To me, that entails letting me know what hours you are available in advance, actually showing up on time, and letting me know ASAP if something came up and you won't be able to make it.

If you're interested, email me with some info about yourself, why you are interested in this position, and what hours you propose to work (it can change later, but I would like to have a general idea) I would like a person who can see me in person to meet my son and could provide references who I can rely on to take care of my son.
