Hi There. Interested in guitar lessons? Here is some information on lessons with me:

Full-Time Guitar Teacher Working Musician BA in Music Specialist in Adult and Teen Students -Beginners to Old Pros Welcome!

- -I'm quite used to being a "guitar psychologist" too, after all these years. I try to help self-taught players with technique, only if the "bad habit" is getting in the way of their playing or playing potential. There are some things that require perfect technique, things we can play "sloppy," and everything in between.
- -I can also help with practice habits, drastically improving the pace at which you finish new material.
- -It is my opinion that most players get frustrated from working on things in the wrong order, for instance always starting at the beginning of a piece. These issues are huge time-suckers + and an easy fix! I can confidently say that I can help you progress more rapidly, and you can learn the same amount of material in considerably less time.

I'm not flaky, not personally or professionally. Many music teachers are REALLY FLAKY from what I hear. I will not flake around on you, rest assured, no matter what previous-teacher trauma you have experienced. I really am grateful for your business and try to make myself available to my students, for instance returning emails and voicemails within the same business day. We aim to please.

Have a good 1. Enjoy all things guitar.
