I'm a single, white male, reasonably attractive, educated, mid-30's, and new to town. I have noticed in the past that long periods alone have an effect on my intimate performance, and I've been "flying solo" for months now. So, what I'd like to find is a female friend who is caring, sexual, and patient. Someone who enjoys the idea of a private and discrete friendship with benefits. Someone who can meet on a pretty regular basis but isn't looking to bankrupt me.

I would propose meeting for coffee to discuss things then jumping right into it. I have a preference for average, thin, or athletic women (sorry, nobody too curvy, please), and light to tan skin (sorry, not that attracted to AA women). Age is not terribly important to me. Please send me a picture and when you would like to.
