Hey hope all is well.
 I haven't done this before and actually feel somewhat embarrassed about the fact that I am doing so.
 I am a college graduate (2013) from one of the most expensive universities in the country (#4) and have student debt and payments to pay off. I have been unemployed since the end of October and have had the hardest time trying to find anything somewhat related to my degree.
 My saving account is now empty and I owe friends and family amounts I honestly can even talk about.

As much as I hate asking and dont want to focus on money,
 I would really appreciate any financial help for rent, and bills.

Any job connections within the fashion, art, entertainment world would be awesome!!!

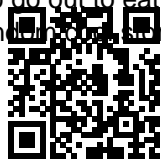

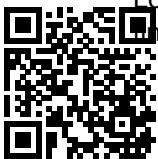

I dont want to keep ranting and raving about my issues financially because there are so many other people out there who have similar or worse problems than me so I will stop there.

I truly do want to meet people who I can make a connection or friendship with, I am hard worker and really interested the arts. I am working on my own clothing line among other things! I have dreams and goals and definitely they will happen some day, but until then, hard work and good people are key!

I am somewhat antisocial - I live a sober life now - and due to my lifestyle choice it is hard to find friends who are not all about drugs and alcohol..

There are so much other things to do in the city than get wasted and feel like shit all the time.

I love to go out to eat, go to the movies, museums, galleries, walk around the city, beach, go to the park and random places.
