ISO your surplus guppies, platies, and mollies (can accept other small-medium community fish as well). Have they been breeding out of control and you just want to find a good home for the babies? Thinking about making the switch to bigger fish but don't know what to do with the smaller ones you have? I will take them off your hands. I can arrange for pick up in the S.Kitsap area. They don't need to be fancy but please, I ask that they are healthy & disease free. I have a prepared, clean 45 gal tank (and others!) they can move right into! (After a proper quarantine period)

I'm an experienced fish keeper with 33 yrs experience. I currently have 7 fish tanks (in use). I enjoy freshwater species, from the tiny to the monster sized.

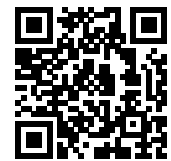

I don't use buckets for moving fish (unless they are big'uns). I like to use large Ziploc bags which helps acclimate the fish to a new tank easier so, if you need help catching the fast little buggers, I'm willing to do that!

Also ISO any surplus WORKING tank heaters, pumps, biofilters, decorations, gravel, tanks (no leakers please), aquarium hoods & lights, and any fish food you aren't using. For some reason I've lost three large heaters, three light fixtures/bulbs, and four pumps in the span of two months!! So donations would be greatly appreciated!

I look forward to hearing from you and meeting any new additions! Thank you for reading my post and for your consideration.
