Whom ever decided they needed my fitness tracker more than I do, I hope you have a heart attack wearing it.

It was left in the women's bathroom in WalMart in Riverton on 4/20/15. Because I am attempting potty training my son, I set it down and forgot about it. My bad, but its really too bad our community is not more giving rather than having sticky fingers all over. I understand, its WalMart....but really, who ever took it is most likely just gonna pawn it (btw its not worth that much, maybe the value of a 5th of cheap vodka or something).

Enjoy your slow ride to hell.
Sincerely,

Fed up mom
