Hickory is a sweet, lovable male boxer mix. He's having health issues (suspected megaesophagus). His health issues can be managed with a special feeding chair that comes free with him to his adoptive or forever home. The Humane Society will provide all the information you need on caring for him. He needs more observation in a home to confirm a diagnosis, but dogs with megaesophagus can live long, happy lives. Please read the note from his instagram page below and direct all inquiries to the WHS GA Avenue Adoption Center by contacting them at or .

Hickory's adoption fee has been waived. Please share and spread the word!!

Hi IG friends,

This is the most important post of my life- my ability to thrive and live depends on it. I have some gastrointestinal (GI) issues that make eating difficult for me, I keep throwing up my food. WHS thinks I might have megaesophagus, but further diagnostics will have to be done by my adopter to make a definitive diagnosis. The staff at the WHS have worked tirelessly to manage my issues and maintain my quality of life in the shelter environment, ever hopeful that I would be adopted by someone willing to help me.

I'm still a happy, affectionate, and playful dog! I go on regular walks, and I'm one of the sweetest, most cuddly dogs my Instahuman has ever met. Further diagnostics and a calm home environment are critical to my life. I have a lot of life left and my medical issues may not be as mountaintainable as I thought. Bailey Cline has made it clear for me to keep looking for a home. I need a home where I can be cared for and my needs are met. I am a dog with a lot of potential and I need a home where I can be cared for. Please share this post to ensure the highest number of people to see this post.

Through my care at WHS is incredible and nurturing, the shelter as a whole is a great environment for any dog. For someone with my GI issues, this environment can exacerbate my condition and may, in fact, lead to something more serious. I don't get adopted soon. Please re-post, hashtag, call a friend, email a friend, do whatever you want to do, but please do it soon. My adoption fee is now waived.

I understand that my medical prognosis is uncertain if you adopt me, which makes it hard emotionally and financially for some, but I promise I will love you as long as you love me.

My Instahuman didn't know about the urgency of this situation until recently, and WHS worked with her to create this post, to increase awareness about me and my IMMEDIATE need for.
