Child Care Philosophy

Family child care in a "home like" setting is the best alternative there is for working parents. It provides a small secure environment for children during the most important time of their development. Family child care offers a home away from home, providing children with "siblings" of all ages, to play, socialize, and learn from. My goal in providing quality child care for your child is to provide. . .

? A learning environment. . . learning is not necessarily the ABC's and 123's, but is also the learning of values. The learning of honesty, respect, self--reliance, and potential, self-discipline, and moderation, the values of being; dependable, love, sensitivity to others, kindness, friendliness and fairness are the values of giving.

A professional to discipline a child occasionally is a discipline, it is not a punishment that you get to be a simple rule. Why so confused by the boy's behavior and the concept of discipline? In my way, the child is being disciplined without making the child feel that he is not loved. This is not development, it is a stern, but it does them good. I handle all situations that arise in the future as my own responsibility without making a character. I have many experiences that show me how to handle situations. I give choices, and in extreme situations a child may be given a "time out", because at times a child may be having trouble making choices of their own and they must need a couple of minutes to calm down, and think about their choices.

? And to foster unconditional love. . . this kind of love is very important to me because children should not grow up feeling that in order to be loved and cared for they must meet numerous conditions.

Communication is key to a successful child care arrangement. The parent and provider need to have a good working relationship so they can communicate and work together. Parent and provider need to exchange pertinent information in the child's life such as changes in routine, special events, or activities, as well as changes such as death, divorce, separation, moving, visitors, etc. All this information can be important in understanding the child's feelings, behavior, and well being.
