Hello!

I'm looking for a female singer with guitar abilities to join a new band that i'm starting.

About the project:

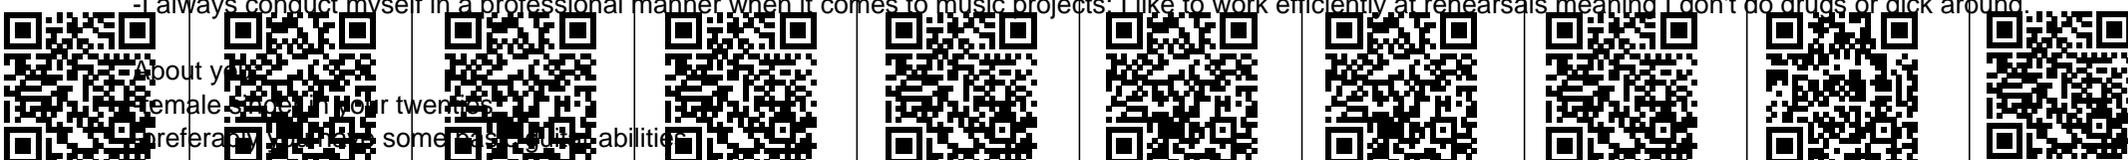

- retro indie-pop style (think Camera Obscura, Tennis, Cults, She & Him, etc)
- instrumentation: organ, guitar, drums, (1 male voice [me], 1 female voice [you])
- melodramatic but clever lyrics, nice smart harmonies, good musicianship but simple accessible music
- recording project to start, focusing on online promotion, but hopefully gigs would follow
- I definitely have high ambitions for these songs and if they turn out well, I'll be promoting them a lot!
- two songs already written but have ideas for more and are open to collaborating on more

About Me:

- 25 year old male song-writer, singer, professional pianist/organist
- I lead 1 successful Chicago band which has been named best new band by Chicago Reader, and has played almost all the prominent venues in town (metro, double door, schubas, etc)
- I play keyboards and sing backups in another successful touring band based in Chicago
- played SXSW 2014, Austin Psych Fest, Goose Island 312 Block Party, Milwaukee Ave Arts Fest and more festivals
- interested in many types of music, from funk to salsa to experimental jazz to psych rock, but know how to hone in a particular sound for a particular project
- committed to making music my career in the long run

-I always conduct myself in a professional manner when it comes to music projects: I like to work efficiently at rehearsals meaning I don't do drugs or dick around.

About you:
 -female singer, four twenties
 -preferably have some guitar abilities
 -familiar with the style/bands listed above and have a voice somewhat similar to those singers (but original style is GREAT!)
 -comfortable performing on stage
 -preferably you write your own songs (I find it easier to collaborate with songwriters)
 -able to set aside time for rehearsals and shows
 -open to the possibility of touring if the project goes well!
 -open to participating in all the non-music side of being in a band i.e. photo shoots, promotion, interviews etc)
 -willing to take constructive criticism and give constructive criticism!
