Hello. I am Joe Nelson. I am 32. I am employed. I have a college degree. I have never been married and have no children. Problem is, I would like to have a set of parents. My father died when I was 16. My mother has chosen to care more for my sister than for me. Truth be told. I don't have any adults to confide in, share my successes with, hang out with, nothing. It sucks. Currently, I am hungry. I have only been able to eat once a day for the last four days and I'm at my wits end. I hate being broke. Living pay check to pay check. Not being able to make ends meat. Much less afford to eat. I just learned that if I didn't start eating more healthy I am going to have full blown diabetes. I can't afford to eat bad food much less good food. Anyway. I am an open book. I am anxious to meet a new couple who would like to invite me into their lives. I'm a great guy and I'm excited to share my successes with a couple who can love and appreciate.
