Bronco has his bags packed and is looking for a one way ticket to anywhere warm--but, he would also be happy with a home in New England, as long as it comes with a soft, warm bed and kind person. In case you have not guessed, Bronco hates the cold. Bronco is house-trained and trusted living free-roam in the house while his parents are at work. Although Bronco likes to rip the stuffing out of toys, but he doesn't bother his person's belongings. He may occasionally give an alert bark to noises heard outside--but not often. This well-behaved boy doesn't even bark or jump when visitors enter the house. Bronco is eager to please and knows: sit and stay--where he will wait for his dinner until you tell him, okay, and will give you his paw when asked to shake. Bronco is a sweet and mellow boy who loves to snuggle and have his butt scratched. His dog interactions have been limited, but he met with one girl beagle and really seemed to like her a lot. Due to a medical condition however, we are looking for a home with calm animals so he doesn't overexert himself trying to play. Bronco has an enlarged heart from a rare genetic disorder called tetralogy of fallot. Unfortunately, due to this, he is not a good candidate for surgery and is not able to be altered. He will need to find a home that will not allow him near any intact female dogs. Bronco may have been born with this defect but it has not stopped him from enjoying life! He is otherwise in good health and could still live a long and fulfilling life. We would like to make his one wish come true and find him his very own home that will just love him and take good care of him for the rest of his life. He is a very special boy whose calm and easy nature is sure to steal your heart!!

Bronco is a 65 lbs., 3-year-old, male Pibble. He is vaccinated, Heartworm tested negative and micro-chipped. Adoption fee is fully sponsored. An application with references and a home visit are required to adopt Bronco. Reply to this posting for
