Do you have a special car, or project that needs finishing up, repair or restoration? Have you been looking for a shop that you can trust with your beloved car to do the job right?

My friend has a small specialty body shop where he performs 'miracles' in metal, fabrication and paint. As an example: he has finished up a complete re-body on the Plymouth Barracuda you see pictured with this post. And, yes, he can also work on classic fiberglass, or late model SMC Corvettes.

He has been practicing his craft for over 30 years and is fully accredited ICAR and ASE. His clean, well equipped shop even has a state of the art downdraft paint booth. While top quality workmanship doesn't come cheap, the labor rates are very affordable and less than many competitors. Plus, there are no wasted motions adding to your job total. Your job will be done right the first time, efficiently and at a fair price.

Business has been good and several extensive projects have been finished up, including a rotisserie, turn-key restoration of a '65 Dodge Coronet Hemi car. There's now room to book new work for late spring, and early summer. Depending on how involved your project is and how quickly we can get started, you could be driving your ride sometime this summer 2015. There's still time but don't delay, get your slot reserved now.

I am screening potential clients before referring them to my friend so as not to waste his time. I don't want to send tire kickers, lookers and dreamers to his shop and I'm not going to send him on a wild goose chase. I'll be at your house, unless you have a bus, fluster, fluster and really get it done. He's not taking any more who want to do one the day and who want to spend the money to do it. He's not taking any more who want to do it. The only way to get it done is to get it done. What you want to do is what you want to do.

My friend accepts weekly pay as you go terms, so you can be comfortable paying for the work on your car. ONLY as it is completed. Sometimes a small deposit up front to cover material will be required. He keeps log for each project and documents each step with plenty of digital photographs. You'll find working with my friend will be a pleasure. He is a man of his word and does what he says he will do. If you are interested, shoot me an email with your phone number and I'll give you a call to discuss your project and answer any preliminary questions you might have before referring you over to my friend's shop.

PS: My friend also does top quality collision repair, schedule allowing. He won't be the cheapest price but he will work with your insurance adjuster to make sure you get a fair settlement and return your special late model car to pre-accident condition. However, the real reason he opened his shop was to create his automotive Picasso's. He really loves classic cars, hot rods and other special restoration, fabrication, or repair.
