Hi,

I am looking for an independent contractor and experienced person to re-install my aluminum siding that was carefully taken off for some work on the house exterior. I will be paying the person who is installing the siding by the hour ($/h). Its basically a two day job for someone experienced. I am willing to have it done over a weekend for people who want a side gig for some extra income. The siding is marked on where it should go and is bundled based on where it needs to be installed.

The contractor must have Break Tool as well as other siding tools. I will provide most of the materials including nails etc. However, I will pay for any misc expenses if discussed up front.

Please contact me with your hourly rate and contact information and if you rate is reasonable I will contact you.

Need it done ASAP.

Thank you,
