I'm a keyboardist who also plays guitar and sings. I'm forming a three-piece band: keyboard, guitar, drums. It's important that at least one of the two musicians I'm looking for be able to sing the other half of our material. All the electric songs that we play will be danceable, fast or slow.

I'm also interested in playing a set of acoustic songs-classic rock. I have a long song list, some I play and sing on keyboard, some on guitar. I'd like it if all three of us have a second instrument. At some point during the gig, we will pick up our second instruments and play acoustic songs. By being able to play both electric and acoustic music, we will be able to play almost anywhere.

This is a brand-new enterprise, so you will have as much say about the band's direction and choice of music as the other members. This is not a case of joining an already-formed band with an already-formed set list.

Rehearsals will be once a week, probably on Monday or Tuesday evening.

Let me know if you're interested or if you have questions. Thanks. My contact phone number is.
