If you are 65+ years old, you are invited to participate in a Harvard University study about reminiscing and well-being. The study lasts about 2.5 hours on the Harvard campus. In the study, you will be asked to do non-invasive tasks that will assess cognitive and physical well-being. For example, you will be asked to play reaction time games and remember a list of words. We will also take measures of hand strength and flexibility.

In another portion of the study, we will ask you to reminisce about the past and talk about photos you bring in to the lab. This portion will be video-recorded.

We pay $30 for the session.

Please hit 'reply' to contact Katherine. She is looking forward to hearing from you and will answer any questions you have. She is looking for 100.
