A brand new website called Shared Address (SharedAddress.com) is days away from being launched to help those looking for either an apartment or a roommate find each other.

To celebrate, we're offering totally free sign-ups for the first 50 people who would like to list their available apartment space, or are looking for an apartment to share.

To be included in our inaugural free offer, please send your request to: or give us a call at for more information.
