Fitness and Cannabidiol
- Two words that haven't normally been associated with one another in the past.

But that's exactly what some athletes have been utilizing in their journey to find the perfect compliment to their daily workout routine.

In the past few years, more and more research has come to the forefront regarding the use of CBD, the "other" side of the cannabis plant. Put simply, the primary effect of THC is "getting high", whereas the primary effect of CBD - otherwise known as "cannabidiol", a naturally occurring compound of the hemp plant - is for use in health and wellness products.

In the world of competitive sports, however, there have been questions about the use of CBD as it pertains toward random drug tests and whether or not it would be of use in the world of athletics.

Brandon Vera, an International Superstar in the world of MMA, utilizes products from a company called KannaWay that he stands behind.

And it's not just lip
