Ever hear the story about the 2 boats and the Helicopter? (If not, I have posted it below)

Are you:

- 20-something and really don't want to go with the "Status Quo"?
- 30-something with kids, and NO time to enjoy them?
- 40-something and just want more LIFE out of life?
- 50-something with no substantial retirement funds?

A wise friend once told me, "No matter what happens in this country's economy, PEOPLE will always need places to live, and they will always have to PAY for them." That means that as long as people are paying for housing, the PROPERTY OWNERS will always have money coming in.

This is a story of a man, who was a firm believer of god.

One day it began to rain very heavily. It kept raining and a big flood came.

The man climbed up on the roof of his house, and knew that he would be ok. God would protect him.

It kept raining and now the water had reached his waist. A boat came by and a guy in the boat said: "Hey, jump in. We will take you with us"

"No thank you", said the man. "I'm a firm believer in God. He will rescue me. I know he will". The boat flew away.

It kept on raining and now the water had reached his neck. Another boat came by and a guy in the boat said: "Look I see you still need to be rescued. Jump in. We will take you with us."

"No", said the man. "I'm a firm believer in God. He will rescue me. I know he will". The boat flew away.

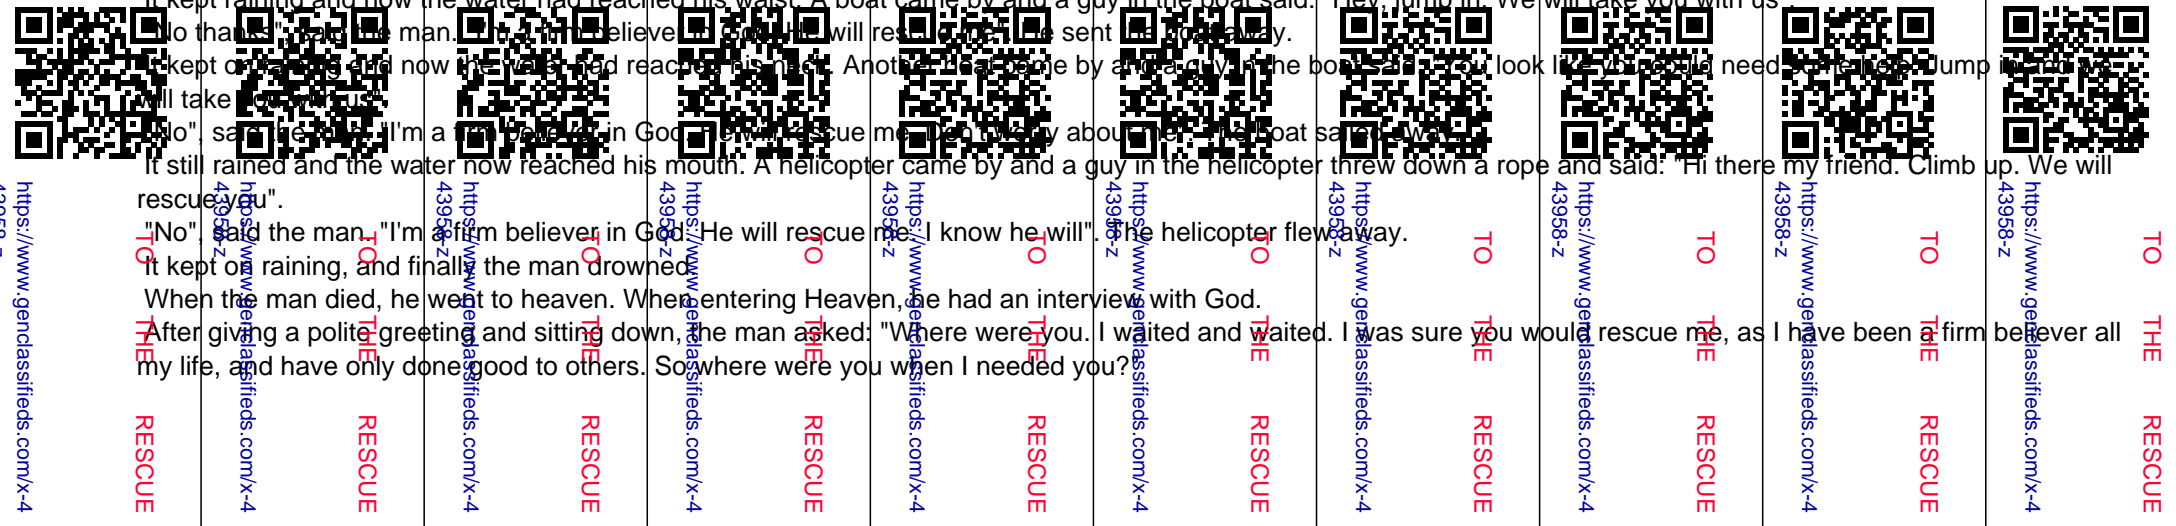

It still rained and the water now reached his mouth. A helicopter came by and a guy in the helicopter threw down a rope and said: "Hi there my friend. Climb up. We will rescue you".

"No", said the man. "I'm a firm believer in God. He will rescue me. I know he will". The helicopter flew away.

It kept on raining, and finally the man drowned.

When the man died, he went to heaven. When entering Heaven, he had an interview with God.

After giving a polite greeting and sitting down, the man asked: "Where were you. I waited and waited. I was sure you would rescue me, as I have been a firm believer all my life, and have only done good to others. So where were you when I needed you?"

God scratched his confused looking face and answered: "I don't get it either. I sent you two boats and a helicopter".

So here I am, lowering my rope to you. Will you grab hold of it, or just keep on hoping that life will get better?
